

Table of contents

11	PREFACE
	Stefania Borghini
15	PART I – UNDERSTANDING PSYCHOLOGICAL THREATS IN CONSUMER BEHAVIOR
17	1. INTRODUCTION: LIVING IN AN AGE OF PSYCHOLOGICAL THREATS
21	2. THEORETICAL BACKGROUND AND CONCEPTUAL FRAMEWORK
21	2.1 Relevance for marketing and consumer behavior
25	3. TYPES OF PSYCHOLOGICAL THREATS
25	3.1 Journal selection, keyword filtering, inclusion criteria
27	3.2 Social exclusion threats
30	3.3 Social identity and stereotype threats
34	3.4 Mortality salience threats
39	PART II – COPING MECHANISMS AND BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES
41	4. COPING WITH THREATS: THREE MODES OF CONNECTEDNESS
43	5. SOCIAL CONNECTEDNESS
49	6. TIME CONNECTEDNESS
53	7. SELF CONNECTEDNESS
56	7.1 Limitations and conclusions

61	PART III – THE ROLE OF HEROIC BRANDS
63	8. HEROIC BRANDS: MERGING CAREGIVER AND WARRIOR ROLES
63	8.1 Introduction
65	8.2 Csr and brands as caregivers
65	8.3 Brand activism and brands as warriors
67	8.4 Heroic brands: brands as both caregivers and warriors
69	9. EMPIRICAL DEVELOPMENT OF THE HEROIC BRAND CONSTRUCT
69	9.1 Study 1: scale development (traits, dimensions)
73	9.2 Study 2a – discriminant validity of the heroic brand scale
76	9.3 Study 2b – providing support for the discriminant validity of heroic brands
78	9.4 When do consumers respond more favourably to heroic brands? Role of heroic brands under psychological threats
80	9.5 Study 3 – heroic brands are preferred under mortality threats
82	9.6 Study 4 – heroic brands are preferred under mortality threats
85	9.7 Summary of findings
87	10. HEROIC BRANDS AS A COPING MECHANISM
87	10.1 How heroic brands help consumers manage psychological threats
89	10.2 Strategic implications for branding in times of social instability
93	References

109	APPENDIX
109	Study 1 – identifying heroic brands’ characteristics (scale development)
111	Study 2a/2b: discriminant and nomological validity
113	Study 2b – additional support for the discriminant validity of heroic brand construct
116	Table 1. Discriminant validity of the heroic brand scale: correlations table
117	Table 2. Discriminant validity of the heroic brand scale
118	Table 3. Discriminant validity with average variance extracted
120	Study 3 – heroic brands are preferred under mortality threats
121	Figure 1. Brand trait preference
121	Table 4. Effects of mortality threats on heroic brand preference
123	punto org book series